

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An optical power measuring apparatus for successively measuring optical power in a time series and displaying a time axis change of the measurement values as a measurement screen fixedly displays the latest measurement value of optical power on the measurement screen, and improves a working factor of an optical axis adjustment.